OUI???...Ou Non!!!

Scénario 6

Georges arrive au Pub au moment où Marlène commande des consommations au bar.

«Bonsoir, comment vas-tu? Tu parais vraiment bien. J'espérais que tu serais ici et que je n'aurais pas à me rendre à la résidence.»

«Salut, Georges. Je suis venue avec des amis. Il faut que je leur apporte leurs consommations. À plus tard!» Georges se place de façon à empêcher Marlène de passer.

«Attends, pas si vite. Tu m'as manquée. Nous n'avons pas parlé depuis un couple de jours et je ne peux pas survivre beaucoup plus longtemps. Alors, dis-moi, y as-tu réfléchi? Quand sortons-nous ensemble? J'ai déjà imaginé la soirée...et la nuit parfaites. Après cela, tu vas de te demander comment tu as jamais pu te passer de moi.»

«Je ne pense pas que ce soit une bonne idée. Je t'ai dit que je suis passablement occupée dernièrement et je ne pense pas que je devrais m'engager envers quelqu'un.»

Elle essaie encore une fois de passer. Elle ne cesse de regarder par-dessus l'épaule de Georges dans l'espoir d'attirer l'attention de ses amis afin qu'ils puissent venir à son aide.

«Je n'accepte pas un refus. J'ai décidé que nous sommes faits l'un pour l'autre et rien ne vas empêcher cela.»

«Bien, tu sais, je sors avec quelqu'un d'autre. Je ne pense pas pouvoir sortir avec deux personnes en même temps.»

«Quoi? Tu ne peux pas être sérieuse! Écoute, tu as besoin de moi. Tu sais cela. Cesse de perdre ton temps avec un autre.»

«Tu rends les choses bien difficiles. Je ne pense pas que nous devrions sortir ensemble. Je ne suis pas prête pour quoi que ce soit à l'heure actuelle.»

«Bien, écoute. Tu ne t'en rends peut-être pas entièrement compte encore, mais je sais que c'est la meilleure chose qui puisse t'arriver. Fais-moi confiance. Alors, qu'est-ce que tu en dis? Nous sortons samedi?»

Selon vous, est-ce que cette situation pourrait être un cas de harcèlement? Vous trouverez la réponse dans le prochain numéro.

...Réponse au scénario 5 du dernier numéro

La Politique touchant le harcèlement stipule que ..."(elle) interdit la discrimination fondée sur la race, l'ascendance, le lieu d'origine, la couleur, l'origine ethnique, la citoyenneté, la croyance, le sexe, l'orientation sexuelle, l'âge, l'existence d'un casier judiciaire, l'état matrimonial, l'état familial ou un handicap."

Selon la politique actuelle, la situation présentée dans le scénario 5 ne semble pas être un cas d'harcèlement. Bien que la plainte de l'étudiant puisse être justifiée, elle ne semble pas se fonder sur les facteurs énumérés dans le Code des droits de la personne de l'Ontario. L'étudiant pourrait explorer d'autres possibilités. Cependant, un entretien avec la responsable, Bureau d'harcèlement, n'est jamais une perte de temps. Celle-ci peut aider à mettre les choses en perspective et suggérer d'autres moyens de résoudre le problème.

Le Bureau du harcèlement est situé au L826 de l'édifice Parker. Vous pouvez nous joindre au poste 3422.

University Applications Down In Ontario

by Stacey Young
The Varsity

University administrators deny that tuition fee increases are responsible for a drop in applications to Ontario's colleges and universities. Applications this year are down 1.3 per cent from last year's numbers. But not all schools saw a drop in applications.

A little over 12 percent more graduating high school students named the University of Toronto as their number one pick over last year's figures. At the other end of the spectrum, almost 20 per cent fewer students expressed interest in attending Ottawa's Carleton University, nicknamed "Last Chance U" due to its significantly lower entrance requirements.

Despite the overall provincial drop, U of T president Robert Prichard says this is good news for his school. "The numbers are very encouraging for U of T," said Prichard. "We are likely to achieve our enrolment plan and [as a result] are likely to raise our academic standards in numerous programs as a result of the increase."

Following the publication of the leaked figures in the Globe and Mail, the Council of Ontario Universities (COU) circulated a warning memo to presidents which said: "It is unfortunate that the caution to keep these statistics confidential has been ignored but if we don't try to control the fallout we can look forward to story after story on tuition fees killing attendance..."

The council maintains that there is no relationship between tuition level and demand for university degrees, and have lobbied the province for substantial hikes in tuition for the last several years. But Heather Bishop, chair of the Canadian Federation of Students Ontario component, disagrees with the council's stand.

"For the COU to try to cover up the figures means they are ignoring a lot of the problems," she said.

Applications to both the University of Ottawa and Ryerson Polytechnical University fell 5.5 per cent, and the University of Western Ontario experienced a decline of 2.8 per cent, including a drop of more than 20 per cent at its main campus, King College.

And although the overall dip in applications is consistent with the lower number of students graduating from the province's high schools, the discrepancy between the institutional figures cannot be explained by demographics. Though university presidents and economists alike are reluctant to make a direct link between tuition and enrolment, following the provincial government's first mini-budget Nov. 29, many in the education sector predicted that the twenty per cent jump in tuition would at the very least put a damper on student mobility.

And Bishop says the preliminary application numbers prove it, with students in northern Ontario suffering the greatest impact. "The stats for U of T are up, while the numbers in other regions [are lower] -- evidence that students are forced to go to the closest universities and live at home," she said. "Students in the north will be unable to experience [southern Ontario], and vice versa."

But Lakehead University president Robert Rosehart, whose university experienced a 5 per cent increase in the number of applications, says he believes the quality and scope of the program offerings go farther in explaining the institutional variance.

"Every year there is opposition to increase tuition, but every year the enrolment" also rises, said Rosehart. "[But] I think if you happen to have the right program mix, the [application] numbers will go up."

Demand for Trent University degrees went up overall by 2.3 per cent from last year, while 14 per cent more students named that institution as their first choice. The rise follows a decrease in Trent applications of five per cent a year ago.

According to Trent president Leonard Connelly, the challenge to his institution is maintaining high school students' interests in Trent since students who applied did so before the November funding announcement. "For Trent, and for all institutions for that matter, what we need to do is to maintain the interest of those students" by making sure to rechannel money from the tuition increase into student aid programs, he said.

And while Connelly says it is necessary for his institution to increase tuition the full 20 per cent, he will be recommending to his governing body that all other fees for such things as student services and residence be frozen.

U of S Professor May Lose Job

Fletcher Kent
The Manitoban

A University of Saskatchewan professor could lose his job after his wife taught his education math class for an entire semester.

Education Professor Bruce Bany allowed his wife Helda, a retired high school teacher, to teach his class for an entire semester because he felt his workload was too heavy.

Professor Bany's fate is now in the hands of U of S President George Ivany.

"I met with President Ivany, Professor Bany and two representatives of the faculty association," said Dean of Education Murray Scharf, "I made the recommendation to President Ivany that Bany be dismissed."

According to Troy Snider, president of the Education Students' Society, Bany was fulfilling the minimum workload for a professor, but he felt it was too much.

"He asked if someone could teach his class for him and was denied," said Snider, "but he went ahead anyway and his wife taught the class for the whole semester."

Scharf says that Bany's workload wasn't excessive.

"How was he supposed to know that the class was excessive?" asked Scharf. "He never taught the damn class. I don't think his workload was excessive and I don't think he thought it was either."

Bany's wife continued to teach class for the entire semester, without anybody knowing anything was wrong. Snider understands how this might happen.

"Nobody thought anything of it because Bany was listed as the course instructor in the calendar and Bany was also the professor for the class. Nobody knew that Mrs. Bany was not the one to be teaching the class."

It wasn't until the end of the semester that anybody even knew that Professor Bany was not teaching his required class. The situation was discovered when a student went to the education department asking for his mark in Mrs. Bany's class.

"It would be a real tragedy if students are hurt through all of this and it is in the best interests of the students that a solution be found. I recommend dismissal." Bany refused to comment on the job review.

Legal Community Denounces Intimidation Charges

by Stacey Young and Alex Felipe
The Varsity

Some members of Ontario's legal community say the intimidation charges laid against four Toronto students for their part in a recent protest represent a government crackdown on dissent. Peter Rosenthal, a University of Toronto mathematics professor and criminal lawyer who has represented numerous peace and social activists, says the use of this charge represents the Tory's attempt to stifle dissent.

"This government has taken a hard line against protest, and this is one more example," said Rosenthal. Rosenthal says the atmosphere at Queen's Park has changed notably since the Conservatives were elected. For instance, he says, all people wearing anti-Tory buttons are prevented from entering the legislature.

Shiraz Rawat, 23, from

Ryerson Polytechnical University and Charles Kernerman, 24, from U of T, Michelle Vladislavova, 18, from Central Technical School and 18-year-old Jesse Black Allen from Western Technical School, were charged under Section 51 of the Criminal Code, with intending to "intimidate the legislature." The students were also charged with breaking and entering and mischief. They were released on $1,000 bail.

In the Criminal Code, the intimidation charge follows "Acts intended to alarm Her Majesty or break public peace," and precedes sections concerned with "sabotage," "mutiny" and "desertion." The charge carries a maximum sentence of 14 years imprisonment.

And lawyers acting for the students say this charge may be in violation of the Canadian Charter of Rights, which protects people's right to protest.

Howard Ruble, who is representing Vladislavova, says protest does not necessarily constitute intimidation. "To intimidate versus protest are very different things. This section is more relevant to situations where there is a clear case of extortion, for instance, if someone threatens to blow up the legislature if a vote doesn't go a certain way, he said.

But lawyers add that it is unclear as to how to mount their defense, as the Crown has never successfully prosecuted an intimidation charge. "We would have a better idea as to how to proceed if there was any case law," says Peter Hatch, defense lawyer for Rawat. "But there is absolutely nothing. 'We're not worried,' he added. "I am just alarmed that the police laid the charge [in the first place]. Someone is using this archaic law to try to stifle dissent."

Though Roland Semprie, one of the two Metro police detectives responsible for laying the charge, says he could not say why the charge was laid, he maintains the decision was not made by the Attorney General's office. "I laid the charge. The buck stops here," Semprie told reporters.

"There are a lot of laws that are not laid on a regular basis. But they are on the books," Ruble, Hatch and friends of those arrested say the students are highly respected and have never had any previous contact with the police. "[Rawat] is a very respected, peaceful person," said Ryerson politics chair Myer Siemiatycki of the third-year politics student.

"[The charges are] ridiculous and outrageous. He is an excellent student, very serious and conscientious in his studies and he really values his education," he said. "[I think] the reason he participated was to try to protect quality education in Ontario."

Rawat is a well-known student activist at Ryerson. Earlier this year he helped start up an alternative student council, the Ryerson Students Union, in opposition to the policies advocated by RyeSAC.

Ryerson's student council condemned the damage to the legislature. "We don't believe in the use of violence to achieve political means," says Frank Cappadocia, an executive assistant at RyeSAC. "This is a major setback to student governments in Ontario."

But according to the president of the U of T's student council, these charges carry a warning to students. "I think what the government's doing is saying, 'don't fuck with us because we will screw you to the max,'" said Marco Santaguida. And Ian Silver, president of U of T's Arts and Science Students' Union says, he thinks the police's heavy-handedness will backfire. "I think [the police] are [trying] to intimidate the student movement, rather than the students trying to intimidate the legislature."

"They are doing everything they can to try to forcefully silence any voice of opposition. But . . . I think the majority of people think [the charges] are ridiculous."

Is It???????... Or Not!!!

Scenario #6:

Geoff shows up at the Pub while Darlene is getting drinks at the bar. "Hey, how are you tonight? You look really good. I was hoping you were going to show up and save me a trip to the residence."

"Hi, Geoff. I came here with some friends of mine. I had better get back with their drinks. See ya!" Geoff shuffles over so that Darlene can't go anywhere.

"Wait, not so fast. I have missed you.

We haven't talked in a couple of days and I can't survive much longer. So, tell me, have you reconsidered? When are we going out on a date? I have already figured out the perfect evening... and night. After that, you'll wonder how you ever got along without me."

"I don't think it's a good idea. I told you, I'm pretty busy lately and I don't think I should get involved with anyone."

She tries again to get around him. she keeps glancing over her shoulder, hoping to get a glimpse of her friends so that they can come to their rescue. "I'm not taking No for an answer. I have made up my mind that we belong together and nothing is going to prevent that."

"Well, I'm sort of seeing someone else, you know. I don't think that I can date two different people at the same time."

"What? You can't be serious! Listen, you need me. You know you do. Stop wasting your time with someone else."

"You're making this very difficult. I don't think we should go out together. I'm not ready for anything right now."

"Well, listen. You may not realise it fully yet, but I know that this is the best thing that could ever happen to you. Trust me. So what do you say? This Saturday okay?"

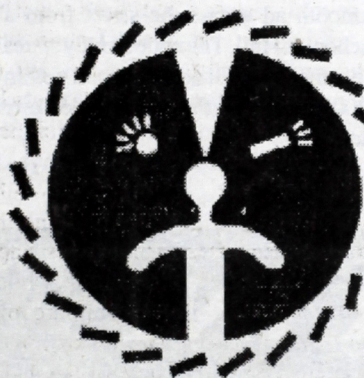

Would you consider this scenario a harassment situation? You'll find the answer in the next edition.

...re: last edition's Scenario #5

The Harassment Policy stipulates that... (it) prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, ancestry, place of origin, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship, creed, sex, sexual orientation, age, record of offenses, marital status, family status or handicap."

Scenario #5 doesn't appear to constitute harassment as per the present policy. Although the student may have a legitimate complaint, it does not appear to be based on the factors listed in the Ontario Human Rights Code. There are other options which the student could explore. However, talking to the Harassment Officer is never a waste of time. She can help put things in perspective and offer advice as to those other options.

A small but dedicated group of Laurentian students traveled to Toronto February 13 to participate in the 11th annual North American Model United Nations '96 (NAMUN). The nine students represented one of the most powerful nations in the United Nations, the Russian Federation. The Laurentian delegation was but only one of the thirty-two colleges and universities from across Canada and the United States present for the five day conference.

All of the Laurentian delegates did a great job in their respective areas, but Jim Chehade shined as a real mover and shaker in the UN Reform. He was awarded the Best Delegate Award at the closing ceremonies for his outstanding performance in the UN Reform

Tobacco Advertisements Target Minors

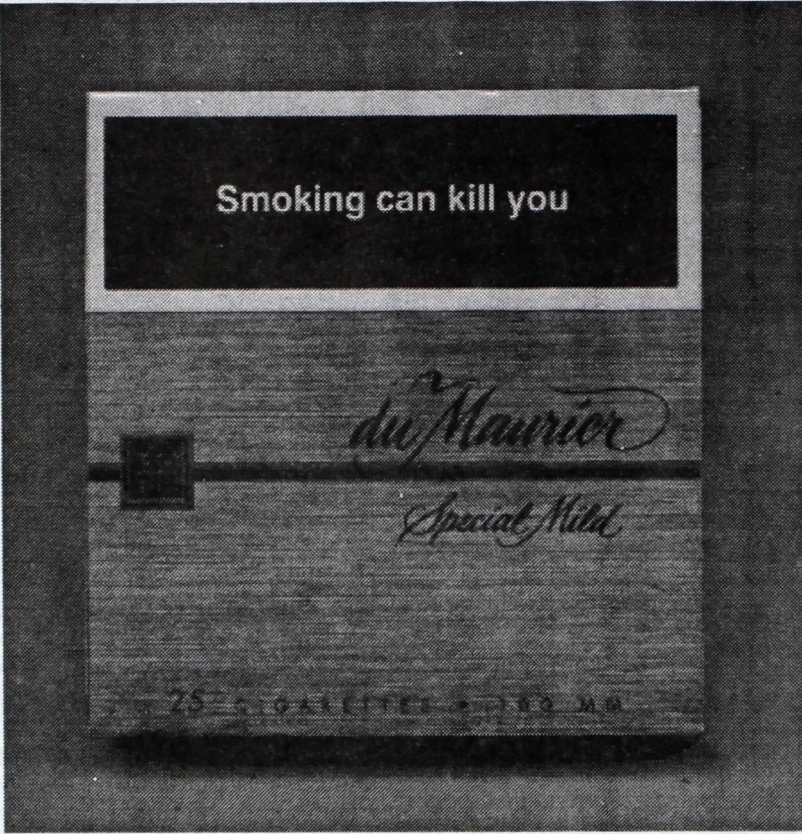

by Samer Muscati
CUP Ottawa Bureau

The advertisements are deceptively simple. It's hard to believe someone is advertising a product that kills 40,000 Canadians a year. But they are. Plastered in bus shelters, billboards, and magazines across Ontario and Quebec, the ads display an invitingly open "smooth" cigarette pack being flanked by an electric and acoustic guitar. "Either you like it or you don't," reads the ad.

But not everyone likes the RJR-Macdonald Inc. ad, including federal health minister David Dingwall, and anti-tobacco activists who say the ads target minors. "I'm rather pissed off at these manufacturers in terms of what they've done," Dingwall told reporters on Feb 21. "It seems to me that they've focused on young people."

Dingwall said he is considering introducing legislation to once again ban tobacco advertising. In September the Supreme Court over-turned key sections of the Canadian Tobacco Control Act which had banned tobacco advertising for seven years.

In December Canada's

tobacco corporations developed a volunteer code of ethics to police itself and make sure minors are not targeted. But anti-tobacco activists say the code is nothing more than a public relations gimmick.

"The ads are not designed for senior citizens," said Ken Kyle, director of public issues for the Canadian Cancer Society. "They're in it to make a profit and it will have an impact on kids."

Heather Selin, policy consultant for the Non-Smokers Rights Association, says that the ads were developed with the youth market in mind, and the locations picked were to maximize exposure to minors. "They can't even adhere to their own code. It shows you how committed they are," said Selin. "The ads are clearly youth-oriented. Youth strongly identify with rock music and rock culture," she said.

"The message they're giving is you're either in or out. They're challenging you to take a chance and be a rebellious young male or female." Health groups are also concerned with ads in bus shelters since many minors use the transit system and would be exposed to them day in and day out. "A very high percentage of regular frequent users are students," said Oxana Sawka, spokesperson for Ottawa's bus company, OC- Transpo.

The company ordered the two dozen cigarette ads removed from the bus shelters only 48 hours after they were put up. An advertising firm, acting on behalf of RJR-Macdonald Inc., did not realize the bus company had a long-standing policy of banning tobacco ads on its buses or shelters.

Meanwhile, RJR-Macdonald further violated their own code of ethics by placing a smooth ad across the street from a school in Hull. The code strictly states that the ads shall not be placed within 200 metres of the entrance of any school.

Mary Trudelle, the spokesperson for RJR-Macdonald, said that it was an honest mistake. "We're upset and very embarrassed about the whole incident," she said.

Trudelle says RJR-Macdonald is serious about maintaining the code and denies any targeting of minors. She says that the guitars in the smooth ad represent different types of music, not specifically rock music.

But Jay House, the public affairs director for the Canadian Council on Smoking and Health, says that the companies are testing the boundaries to see how far they can go.

"It's not a coincidence that their ads appeal to youth. They have no choice but to recruit youngsters", said House. "Once you're addicted it doesn't matter whether you like it or not -- you need it."

Kyle agrees and says if people do not start smoking before the age of 19, then the chances of getting addicted are drastically reduced. He says that the corporations need to get smokers hooked on early to keep the industry viable since teenagers make up the biggest growth sector.

"They need to constantly attract a new market," said Kyle, "because they kill-off 40,000 of their best customers every year."

SPACE FOR RANT

Propaganda or Brainwashing?

by Kevin Perrault
Contributor

I was watching television last Saturday and I saw something that really disturbed me. A commercial with a young girl came on and she said that she would wait to be married before having sex. Then a voice came in saying that if you don't wait for marriage, you might catch diseases or worse!

Boy, did I ever blow up! The commercial was blatant propaganda based on lies. First, if you have protected sex, your chances of getting a disease are very low. Second, who says that when you get married, your husband/wife won't have a disease? Third, does that mean that people who never get married or get divorced cannot have sex?

Come on, give me a break! I to would seem that the good old school is still in high gear waiting to control the lives of their children. And using a child, a 12 year old mind you, to make your point is just plain shameless.

This is just another ploy by militant religious groups to tell us how to live our lives. I guess these groups believe that if we don't wait until marriage, we'll sleep with everyone under the sun and corrupt the youth?

Pleaaaaaase, don't they realize that we have minds of our own? Responsible people will protect themselves when having sex, and if they don't protect themselves they shouldn't be having sex in the first place. With the threat of AIDS and other diseases, protecting yourself is the only choice!

The commercial simply wants to brainwash our children into believing that sex is a bad thing unless you are married (like marriage suddenly transforms sex into a good thing). Don't get me wrong, I don't advocate people having sex, unless of course they are mature enough to handle the responsibility and the consequences of their actions.

Sex is not something to be taken lightly!!! But it is not up to someone else to tell you what to or to do with your life. The decision to have sex and when to have it is in our own hands not others.

If your friends jumps into a lake does that mean you have to follow them? And if they tell you not to jump in the lake does that mean you shouldn't? There are two sides to everything. Think about it!!

Tales From The Left

by Ray Marks
Columnist

Family values? Whose family values? All of a sudden a reactionary zealot aiming to turn the clock back to 1950 has castrated the US Presidential race into chaos.

Pat Buchanan surprisingly won the New Hampshire Primary and sent the world a message. Although he didn't win by a big margin, he has taken the spotlight away from the other candidates running for the Republican nomination.

A recent poll of Republican party members shows that 54% agreed that Pat Buchanan was too extremist to be the party nominee. It is Buchanan's attitude that has gotten him to this point. Many Republicans fear his extremist views but the party is caught in a dilemma. They don't want to alienate the Religious Right or make Buchanan a martyr.

The base of his campaign for President are family values. Many Americans embrace his slogans, the proof is New Hampshire and the backroads of America which can be a dangerous place for Social-Democrats like myself. He wants values integrated into everything. Whose family values? His, of course. From eliminating sex and violence from the media, to voluntary school prayer and traditional marriages to be the norm.

When religion and politics mix too closely, the results can be dangerous. The world is full of examples. Buchanan knows he is fighting an uphill battle and I do not believe he will become the Republican nominee. The problem is that the "moderate" vote is split between two candidates: Bob Dole and Lamar Alexander. Until one of the two drops out of the race, Pat Buchanan's showing will continue to be strong.

The man is full of surprises and never ceases to stir things up. Whether he is saying that homosexuality is the cause of AIDS or that he doubted that so many Jews were murdered in the Holocaust, he does not seem afraid of any issue.

Buchanan never ceases to blow the dust off many issues like abortion, immigration, GATT and NAFTA. If elected, the US would almost literally close its borders to the outside world. In a time of globalisation and the tearing down of more and more barriers, the world's largest super-power would dwindle away closed for business. The ramifications of this would greatly upset world markets and the entire geopolitical map.

Canadians should worry about Buchanan and not take him lightly. He said that Canada is a bad example for Americans. He also said that the Great Wall of China is what the US needs along the Canadian border. Good fences make good neighbours, I guess.

Last week, two important Buchanan campaign workers were fired: the first, because it was discovered that she was a prominent member of a white supremacist group and the second because he was a top dog in David Duke's campaign. How scary does all this sound? Very!

Maybe the US needs a new set of values controlled by the government or to protect its national sovereignty. If Buchanan is getting this many votes, there definitely is some anger and animosity out there. The GOP and Christian Coalition have been dominating the media and many want it to stop.

This is one of the reasons why Bill Clinton will be re-elected (although I don't fully support him or his initiatives) and that Buchanan's army of Christian soldiers circle overhead like buzzards and will get no pity. Not even from Democrats.

This week's Adam Smith has Passed On Award goes not only to Pat Buchanan but to all of the candidates. In the end, the one with most money will prevail. A sad truth indeed. Congratulations to Steve Forbes for using his own money. Many say he wants to buy his way into the White House. Maybe using your own money instead of big business and citizen group contributions in exchange for favours once in office seems too straightforward.

Phantom of The Dark Ages

Bonjour mes amis! And welcome to Chez ChevalierSombre's. Table for how many? Is that smoking or non-smoking? Tobacco or pot? Ah, here your host for the evening, Chef Michel. He's one of the finest chefs at this political roadkill cafe. Chef Michel, would you mind filling in these fine people with today's menu?

Why certainly; madames et monsieurs, today's special is Canadian Cuisine. Allow me elaborate:

First on the menu is New Democrat Pie, a somewhat more rare dish after the last Ontario election. This item brings together many vegetative special interest groups, baked with chunks of fatty union leadership. Of course, the gravy inside has been thickened with taxpayer dollars, and everything is held together by the thick crust of neo-Marxist ideology. Included in this entree is either the Green Party Vegetable Platter, or Big Union French Fries — strikingly greasy. For desert, we offer this dish a la carte with Special Interest Ice Cream.

Our next special for the day is the Jean Cretien Spaghetti, liberally coated with grated cheesy policies. The noodles to this plate are made from the finest wheat Trudeau could confiscate from the Canadian Wheat Board, while the sauce is a thick red, composed mainly of leftovers from the other dishes. Lacking a flavor of its own, this dish is renown for its adjustment to the individual pallet. I must forewarn you, however, the spaghetti sauce contains little meat, and while the dish may taste wonderful at the moment of consumption, it has very little substance to pacify one's hunger in the long term. Quickly passing through your system, you may find yourself hungry again after an hour.

Our third special for the day is the Mike Harris Turkey Roast. A fine bird, gutted of its provincial insides, stuffed with Tsubushi Tuna and Bologna Sauce, and baked in the foil of the Common Sense Revolution. This bird has the rare distinction, shared only with the Klein Duckling, of having two right wings. Also similar to its cousin the Klein Duckling is that this bird tastes better butchered into chunks, rather than thinly sliced. Still young, this bird is extremely lean, and should not be confused with its federal counterpart, the Mulroony Loon. However, in order to counter the tastelessness of this entree, we will provide you with a pitcher of Senate Gravy, aged beyond perfection. Also included with this dish are Big Business Potatoes, divided into Tax Shelters and richly spices with Multinational Corporations. Normally, we offer Southern Republican Newt Tails as an appetizer with this entree, but the Newt harvest is temporarily locked up in a price war with the Democrat Capon Chicken.

Finally, we have the Reform Party Steak. A rather difficult meal for a French chef like myself to cook, let alone eat, this dish is nonetheless highly popular out West. Refusing to be milked any longer by the rest of the Country, this Western Grade A Bovine is then slaughtered by the mainstream media, marinated in Alberta oil, and cooked over a prairie fire. Unfortunately, due to the age of the cattle involved, the steak tends to contain unusually high levels of gristle. We do recommend, here at Chez ChevalierSombre's that you also order a pitcher of Western Ale to wash it down, this is the only known ale brewed from barley sown with the Seeds of the Western Dissent.

And remember, at Chez ChevalierSombre's Political Roadkill Cafe, Chef Michel accepts Visa, Mastercard, American Express and sometimes the Canadian dollar.

Election '96 Supplement

Mike Grube

It is that time of year again, for mid-terms and all those papers that everyone has conveniently procrastinated until the last minute. It is also the time for elections, specifically Student General Association elections. This year's election has dome added significance to it. Students have heard of the budget cuts which have been imposed on us by the provincial and federal governments. It is with this in mind that it is important to have strong representatives who will voice student concerns effectively.

Over the past three years, I have been involved with the SGA in various capacities, which have taught me a great deal about how to effectively voice student concerns. Two years ago, I was the Single Student Residence representative on the SGA Board. This position included such committees as the constitution and services committees. Last year, in my position as SSR Council President and Residence Assistant, I worked with the SGA on a number of issues and events, such as Alcohol Awareness Week. This year as an SGA Senator representing student concerns at the University Senate, I have learned a great deal about dealing with administration. Through the various committees over the years I have learnt the effective ways in voicing student concerns.

These next few years will be very important in determining what post secondary education will look like in the future. Post secondary institutions across North America are in the process of restructuring and it under this light that students can have a real say in what institutions will look like. As Laurentian University restructures, it is important to let administration know what we think. That Laurentian is a northern school, representing Anglophones, Francophones and First Nations Peoples. By getting the necessary information out to the students, they will be in a better position to voice their concerns. If we work together and move forward as students united, we can make the best of the situation at hand.

Thank you for your time and I hope to see everyone out voting on March 6 and 7. Good luck on all remaining assignments and final exams.

Alex Wilde

To this university, I am Wilde, Alexander B. 909 510 710, but that is not who I am. My name is Alex. This University often forgets that they are providing a service to its students. I feel that the university views the students as a rather troublesome lot that continually creates more work.

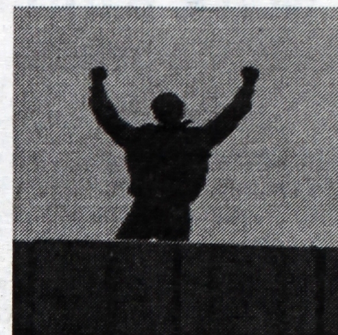

At a news conference in the Governor's lounge the President of this university made the announcement that tuition, our tuition will be increasing by 20%. Few students will not be able to return to school because of this 20% increase. it will make like more difficult for some and is a pain for all of us. But it truly is not a great change. Although it is a perfect example of how this university regards its students - - Money.

The Laurentian calendar states that Laurentian is set up to bring together different groups and to serve its students. And that students input must be heard at all levels. Where was the student input before our tuition was raised.

I like Laurentian and don't care if McLean's does not. But we have to promote this university for its positive points, and work to fix the negatives. The SGA should work towards bringing On-campus and Off-campus together. This university was set up with special provisions for Franco-Ontarian and First Nations peoples, yet the SGA has somehow excluded or ignored these and other groups of students as secondary to the SGA. The SGA is there to serve students (with services), and represent the students (by fighting for our rights). If that means not accepting a 20% tuition increase, so be it.

I have worked for the university and the SGA at three positions, for Students Awards, for the Placement Centre, and for the Off-Campus Housing Office. Each of these offices serve the students, and have seen some of the things that students feel are important to them. How they pay for school, where they work, and where they live are fundamental issues to students. As President I would fight for more bursaries, at present the SGA only offers four. I would like to see all jobs for students posted in the Placement Centre, not just OSAP jobs, and also more jobs for students whether that be something that has to be added into Marriott's or other contracts, so be it. I feel that the continued support of the Off-Campus Housing Office is crucial.

I have shown a commitment to this university and the students by Organizing the White Ribbon Campaign, volunteering during Orientation, to Thorneloe Council, and by sitting on the Presidential Advisory Committee on the Status of Women at Laurentian, and volunteering for the WalkHome Program. I even dressed up as Penguin for Carny.

REFERENDUM - WHY A STUDENT DENTAL PLAN?

Over the past several years, the needs and services required by all students attending post secondary institutions have changed. In general, the average age of students has been increasing due to the evolution of the Canadian workforce from blue collar based to white collar and professional. Many mature students are returning to school. Long gone are the days of relying on the large corporations to provide employment opportunities as did most of our parents. Education at the post secondary level is now seen by most as assuring future employment opportunities, providing our governments realize that assisting, not hindering everyone's access to education is essential.

During the course of the year, unexpected illness or other health problems can lead to costly medical bills and absenteeism for some students. In the past, the SGA recognized this possibility and implemented a student health plan. The fact that SGA members annually claim almost $200,000 of health care related products is strong evidence to support the decision made by the SGA over five years ago.

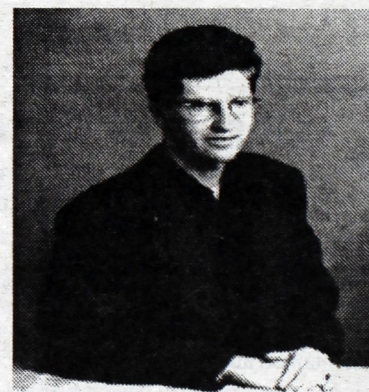

Over the same time frame, SGA members have also inquired as to the feasibility of a dental program. Whereas most dental procedures are not "life threatening" if left untreated, they can result in pain that prevents a student from attending class as well as creating further complications to their dental health. In order to safeguard this need, the SGA is proposing that a dental plan be implemented for September 1st, 1996.

Although the addition of a dental plan could be seen as "another" expense for students who already face increasing tuition and other costs, it should be viewed in the context of spending a few dollars today to avoid having to pay more expensive bills tomorrow. Dental bills can run into the hundreds of dollars. Neglected oral hygiene can cause unexpected absence from class if left untreated. SGA services have expanded over the years, and in view of funding cutbacks to universities from provincial governments and increasing student tuition costs, more than ever students need to be protected against unexpected medical problems, dental being one of them.

Information regarding two types of dental plans will be available on campus leading up to the referendum to be held March 6th and 7th with the SGA elections.

John Wilkin

Greetings students of Laurentian. My name is John Wilkin, I am in my final year as an English and History major, and I am hoping to serve as the next SGA president. While most of my time here at Laurentian has been focused on working with the various clubs and associations, including sitting on the executives of both the English and History Societies, this past year has been spent working as an SGA senator as well as volunteering at most of the SGA activities. Outside of school I have also volunteered with a number of groups and international organizations, including serving as Prez of World University Service Canada. I feel that the knowledge that I have gained in the past years in my various roles has prepared me for the presidential position. In the year ahead the dedication I have made to serving the students in the past will only increase, and as we face a financial crisis I will be able to build upon my experience to serve as a strong student voice for Laurentian students. We need financial responsibility (no more wasting $40 000 on Endless Summer), strengthening of our clubs and associations, and a willingness to work with the Laurentian administration to make the financial cuts we face as painless as possible. These are the things I can promise you next year, as well as my complete dedication to serving the needs of Laurentian students as best I can. With that, I would like to wish everyone good luck through the end of the school year, and thank you for considering me as your SGA/AGA Prez.

John Wilkin

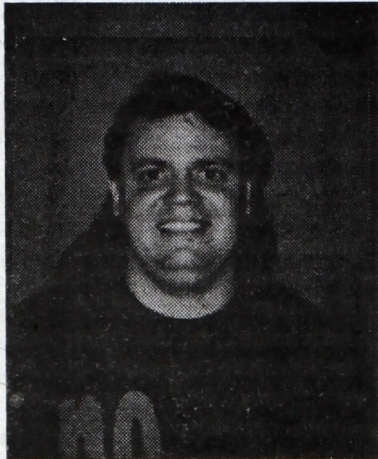

VP External

Mark King

Fellow Laurentian Students,

My name is Mark King. I am a 3rd year Native Human Services and Social Work student and a candidate for the position of V.P. External for the Students General Association.

During my active 2 years on the Laurentian political scene I have had the honour of holding several elected positions both at the local and provincial level including: 2 years on the Student General Association Board (Budget and Election Committees), V.P. Internal (#2 Spokesperson) Native Students Association 94/95, Student Commissioner Executive Board of the Canadian Federation of Students Ontario 1995 till present

Serving the students of Laurentian has been both rewarding and fulfilling. The countless hours of meetings, I have attended has rewarded me with a vast knowledge of student affairs on several levels. We as students face overwhelming changes to our current education system.

Severe cutbacks have forced proposed tuitions increases and cuts at the administrative level. Several programs face being cut or amalgamated thus threatening the solidarity and cultural identity. Disillusionment of the Professional schools such as Commerce or Social Work may also raise questions as to legitimacy of accreditation.

Cuts must be made but should we as Students shoulder the majority of this burden? Can we as students face a 20% tuition hikes with I.C.R.P. (Income Contingent Repayment Plan) lurking in the stormy future of Education. The answer is most definitely NO! Education must be kept accessible, affordable, and PUBLIC.

As V.P. External I would maintain the current direction of the Students General Association in opposing the cuts. I would also use my experience in lobbying and in negotiating to ensure that a strong voice is delivering the message of Laurentian students. My diplomacy will ensure that this message will reach the provincial and federal levels. Laurentian students have a chance to make a difference in how the cuts affect us.

A vote for Mark King will promote a stronger university and together we can offer alternatives for a better future.

Mark E. King

Heather Melcher

SGA policy states that our organization must be first and foremost the political voice of our membership—the students. This is also the root of my dedication to the SGA. I would like to see the political side of the SGA move forward and grow within the next year. My plans for the future of the SGA include the expansion of government lobbying and contact on behalf of Laurentian students and the development of a well informed, politically-aware student body. I hope to work with the SGA executive and board as a team to ensure student representation and a strong voice within our community.

My experience with the Association is considerable. I have been a SGA Board member for three years - serving two years as an Off-Campus Representative and one as the Biology Academic Representative. I have also been a voting member of the External Committee for one and a half years and of the Constitution and Policy Committee for one year. I am currently the president of the Biology Society and in that capacity sit on the departmental student appeals committee. In January of this year, I was fortunate to have been chosen as a delegate of Laurentian SGA at the Canadian Federation of Students - Ontario Semi-annual General Meeting.

I am completing my degree this year and will be able to dedicate all of my time and energy to this position next year. My experience with the SGA and the Biology Society has given me the organizational and leadership skills as well as the confidence required for this position.

I pride myself in being open and ready to listen to new ideas and the to concerns of Laurentian students. Please feel free to contact me should you have any questions or comments concerning the issues facing Laurentian students (e-mail: S1400161@nickel.laurentian.ca).

The climate for education is not improving in this country or this province. Laurentian students must be well informed and prepared to act. It is the role of the SGA to remain progressive and proactive in order to protect our right to a quality and accessible education. It has to start somewhere — it might as well start with M.E. (Melcher for External)!

Heather J. Melcher

VP Services

Christine Denomme

Hi folks, my name is Christine Denomme your current VP of Services for the SGA. Bonjour, je me nomme Christine Denomme et je suis votre VP des Services pour l'AGE. For the last year, I have maintained and nurtured the qualities that enable me to perform well at this job. My energy, good will, persistence, spirited ways carried my through this past year and I'm ready to attack the 1996-97 year. I'm ready to start the new year with more fire, energy and enthusiasm just as I did this past year. This past year I worked in a dynamic way to better the services that we, the SGA currently provide. As VP of Services, I did some research throughout other Canadian universities regarding the services available to their students, with intentions to bringing new ideas to you. In the upcoming year, I will work on providing new and exciting services and events. I will continue to have a close relationship with the residence assistants, association, councils, off campus students and now I will work closely with all the SGA recognized clubs. Laurentian University is ours, the students and I will do our very best to make it the place to be.

To sum it up, I'm very proud of my year as VP of Services for the SGA. I did the job and I did it well. A year ago, I sat writing this text of my thoughts and ideas that would make me the best candidate. This year, I'm here before you knowing I am the best candidate for the job. I look forward to serving you in the 1996-96 academic year. N'oubliez pas de voter le 6 et 7 mars pour Christine Denomme, vice présidente des services de l'AGE. Don't forget to vote on March 6th and 7th.

Christine Denomme

Jeffrey O'Toole

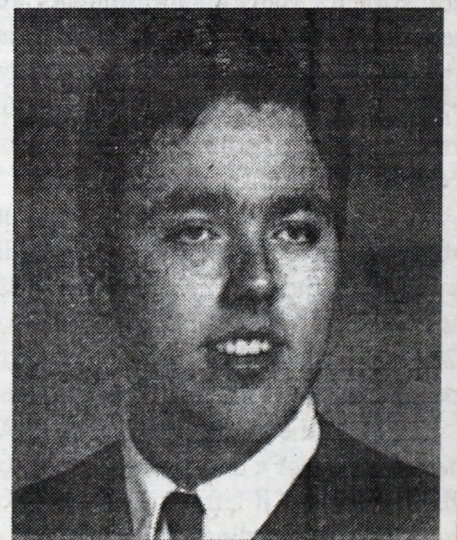

Hello and Bonjour Laurentian students. My name is Jeffrey O'Toole. I am presently Vice-President of Finance and am seeking the position of Vice-President of Services for the 1996-1997 year.

During my term of office, I have been able to acquaint myself with the issues facing the Students' General Association. It has been my pleasure to sit n various committees while voicing the concerns of my constituency. I now wish to branch into a new area where I feel I can best put to use my ideas for the future. I see the position of Vice-President, Services as becoming more diversified and less concentrated on large-scale, large-budget events. Some of my ideas include a restructuring of both Endless Summer and Carny Week. It is my plan to make these events more financially sound and cost-effective.

As students, our economic viability has been dramatically altered for the worse due to reductions in provincial transfer payments to Universities and cutbacks in student loans. Consequently, we as students are being forced to turn to government assistance to pay our ever-increasing tuition.

As Vice-President of Services I will provide a fiscally responsible, more diversified budget in response to the growing service needs of you, the students. I will take it upon myself to provide new services which will give our campus life a new vitality.

I look forward to serving you in the upcoming year and hope to have your support in the upcoming elections.

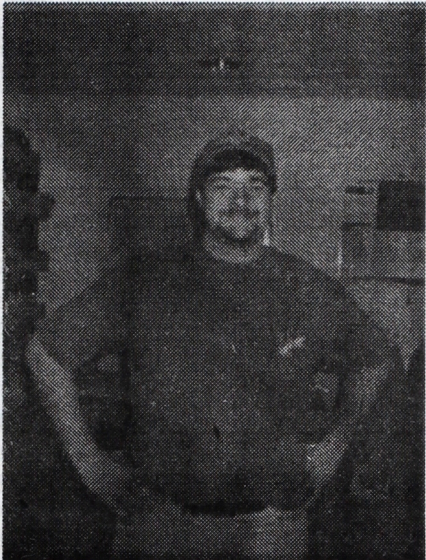

Jeffrey O'Toole

Senators

William Brydges

Hello my name is William Brydges, but many of you may know me as Isaac. I am a fourth year geology student who greatly believes in student activism. In my years attending this institution I will have seen tuition rise from $1700. to $3000 while student representation in the decision making at this institution has stayed at the same levels. Over the past two years I have served you, the student body as V.P. Communications and bilingual affairs and in this capacity I have learned that students are not always aware of their rights. My goals for next year if elected as a senator are to inform the students of their rights by forming a senate ad-hoc committee on student rights and student services. This committee in which any students can participate would look into reforming the way academic appeals are done, in order to make them more student friendly. This committee would also look into a standardized course syllabus and a review of student services. I look forward to seeking to you concerning my platform and welcome any new ideas.

Brian Kett

Greetings fellow Laurentian students. My name is Brian Kett and I am seeking re-election as Senator for the SGA.

Franklin D. Roosevelt once said that "No political party has exclusive patent rights on prosperity". This university has been dealt a six-million dollar cut to its' grant. How Laurentian deals with that cut is another matter. I have been on Senate this past school year, representing the students interests in a sea of administration and faculty.

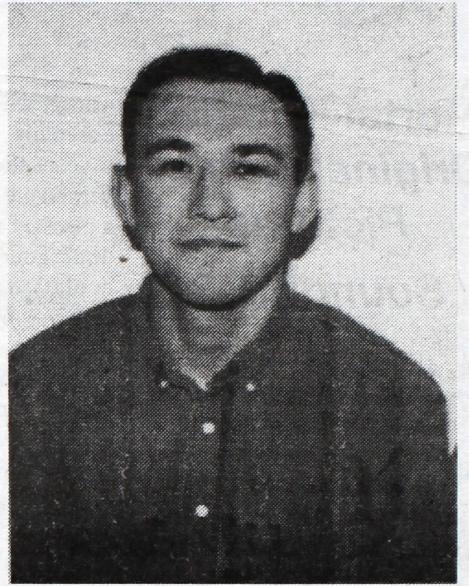

I have also served on the SGA board for almost two years now, last year as Off-Campus Representative, so I am quite familiar with both SGA and Laurentian policies. I have also served on the SGA Finance committee for two years and on the Constitution and Policy committee for two years as well. I was also familiarized with some Senate procedures last year as well by serving as a student representative on the Senate ad hoc Committee for Students Rights and Students Services. This committee made recommendations to the Project to Enhance Teaching and Learning, drafted by the Senate Teaching and Learning Committee.

This year, my committee work has been more active. Along with the Finance and Constitution and Policy committees, I sit on the SGA Communications committee. Through the Communications Committee, I also had the pleasure of attending a media workshop designed to teach students how to effectively interact with the media.

My Senate committees this year include the Undergraduate Academic Awards Committee, the Student Appeals Committee and the WAC/LIP Committee.

I was also honoured last year to receive the SGA President's Award for Outstanding Achievement in Student Involvement.

The coming school year is going to involve a lot of changes. I'm not going to lie to you, the administration is already required to increase our tuitions by 10%. They will probably also try to increase it by a further 10%. I feel, however, that cuts must be made to the administration and management rather than to our valuable educations. After all, we are the paying customers in this deal, and we deserve to be treated with the respect that we deserve. So, on March 6 and 7, put your vote with the experience and drive that I represent. PUT KETT BACK ON SENATE!

William Morin

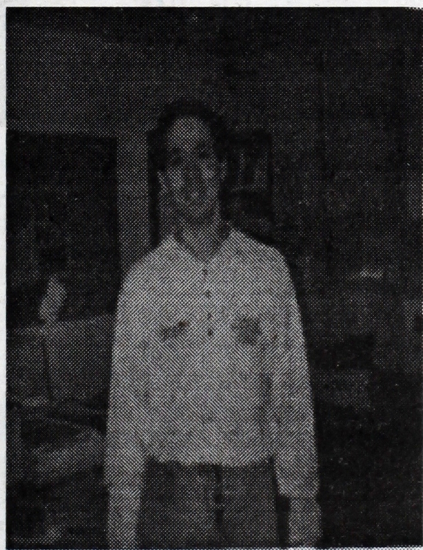

Numerous people have come to me with the question, "Will, do you have the necessary leadership skills needed to sufficiently fulfill the position of SGA Senator?" Well I'll let you decide.

In addition to the five years of being a member on the Englehart High School Students' Council, I have also completed the Ontario Students' Leadership Course at Lake Couchiching, Ontario. I have also gained valuable leadership experience by attending three annual leadership conferences held by the North-Eastern Region of the Ontario Secondary Schools' Students' Association (NEOSSA). The leadership skills I had gained from those previous years were put to the test in the 1994-95 school year when I was elected as the Division Representative for the Timiskaming District on the executive cabinet to NEOSSA. As Division Rep, I ensured that the students within the five high schools in my district had a voice at Queen's Park. I also assisted in the organization of the NEOSSA annual leadership conference, "94 DEGREES."

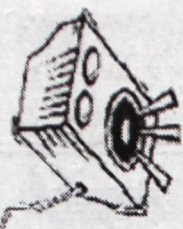

This year I am involved with the L.U. Goju Ryu Karate Association, the Expedition Club, student political organizations, and am the University of Sudbury Residence Representative to the SGA Board. This past year has given me knowledge into the intricacies of the SGA, and after sitting in on an actual Senate meeting, along with many in-depth conversations with the present SGA senators, I know the requirements demanded that of a Senator.

One of the issues I would fight for as a Senator, is the representation of students according to how much they contribute to the University's operating budget. For example, currently the students pay approximately 25% of the L.U. operating budget. Representation of the student body at Senate meetings would comprise 25% of the vote, which is significantly more than we have presently. It is vital that increase student representation on Senate, and all of its committees because ultimately, it is the student who is affected by "academic planning, "policy changes and restructuring of programs. It is extremely vital that the best interests of the students are heard above the personal agendas and "petty squabbling" of the various deans, vice-deans, and professors at the Senate table.

In the past I have always maintained an "open door" policy in which anybody could approach me about any issue they may consider of importance. As in the past, I will represent the student body to the best of my abilities. I know what would be expected of me, and I know I can fulfill these duties beyond anyone's expectations.

Mortal Kombat Original Motion Pictures Soundtrack

by Kevin Perrault
Staff Writer

Mortal Kombat, what can you say about a soundtrack from a movie that is based on a video game? Well, for one thing it has big names making music that makes you think you're the one fighting off the Outworld bodies. This soundtrack has it all, dance, metal, alternative.

I have to admit that at first I thought this was going to be another way for the makers of Mortal Kombat to make more money by giving us so-so music. But low and behold, upon listening to it and heard something that appealed to me, VARIETY!

I must warn you that if you saw the movie, you will be mildly disappointed since some of the movies music is not on the soundtrack, but the producers did add in great tidbits such as Type O Negative, with a new and improved version of Blood & Fire. There is more Traci Lords (yes, the former porn star!), KMFDM, Utah Saints, Geezer (former member of Black Sabbath), Fear Factory, Napalm Death.

Of course, my personal favourites are Utah Saints and The Immortals. Both songs have little parts from the movie added in that sort of make you want to watch the movie again.

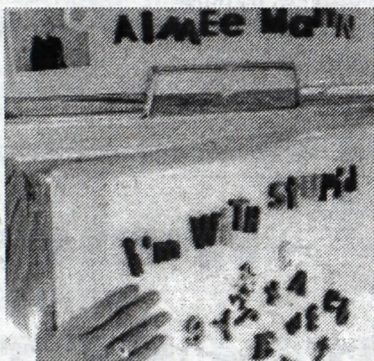

Quite simply, if you liked the movie, you will like this soundtrack. This soundtrack will have a permanent place in your CD collection, especially if you are a fan of movie soundtracks.

The Shuffle Demons— Cyber Jazz "Live"

by Dave Miner
Staff Writer

Well, the Spadina Bus has left the terminal. The Roach is out of the house. The Shuffle Demons are dead, long live the Shuffle Demons.

Those who expect a small horn ensemble regaling listeners with psychedelic folk tunes about house vermin are in for a shock. But what a pleasant shock it is: the band has undergone a delightfully trippy evolution, bringing on board a carnival of new instruments and influences. The album boasts divinely funky arrangements guaranteed to get you boppin', featuring some slinky lead guitar work that should go over well with fans of Primus, and a hip-hop leaning reminiscent of Boo-Yaa T.R.I.B.E. The heart of the Demons has always been the horn section, and from the outset, lines weave hypnotically through the mix to create a blissfully unique listening experience. Personally, though, I felt that the tape got all the problems of a live tape, as it really could have benefitted from one more pass through the mixing console, and none of the benefits, as there is very little crowd interaction and the music is so deftly performed that it's easy to believe it the end result of many meticulous studio hours. But these are small misgivings, and in the end it is very easy to simply sit back (if you can sit down to songs this catchy, that is) and enjoy.

Aimee Mann I'm With Stupid

by Dan Scott
Staff Writer

I got turned onto Aimee Mann three summers ago, listening to CFNY while driving endlessly for some car rental company. Life was pretty easy, the job was pretty basic, but I got to the point where the one thing I looked forward to was hearing Mann's single "I Should Have Known" every day. It sounded huge—booming, orchestrated, straightforwardly cynical about love.

Eventually I bought the CD—Whatever—her first solo release after the disintegration of Til Tuesday.

You could say I was a little disappointed. The single was a bit of an aberration, since Aimee seemed to have a thing for Byrds samples and other simple acoustic stylings—but all the attitude was the same. I just wanted to hear more expansive sounds behind the cynical lyrics.

So, almost three years later, I'm With Stupid is released. I'm salivating to find out how it sounds. It falls into my hands (after much pleading) and I fire it into the CD player. Results? Happiness and surprise.

The songs have become more uniform, soundwise, and Mann's lyric-writing is spare but effective. The majority of songs have staked out a fairly aggressive guitar sound safely in between the attention-grabbing bombast of "I Should Have Known" and the lighter acoustics of Whatever. Her attitude is great, as you can tell by the alphabetized lexicon that Mann included in lieu of the standard lyric sheets—the "F" section includes "fuck," "fucked," "fucking"—you know she's still pissed off in her uniquely sweet way.

I'm With Stupid doesn't break new ground. Instead, Aimee refines the territory she claimed three years ago, presenting a much more solid overall effort than her initial release. Every song has at least one killer hook and line, making listening to the album from start to finish a pleasingly feasible task. It's worth picking up.

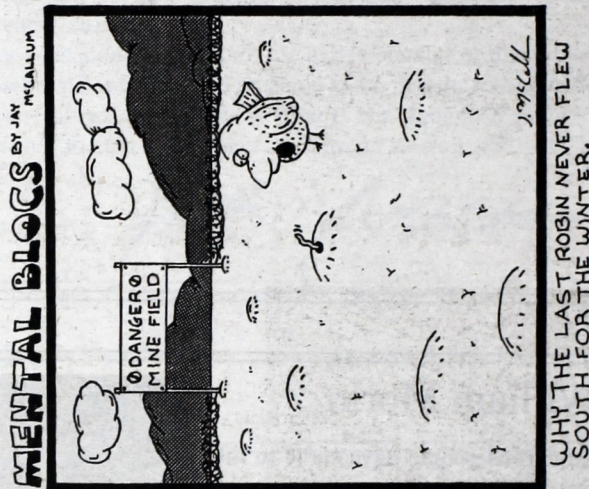

Rusty Rocks the Towne House—The View From Down Here

by Lisa Urso
Staff Writer

I like to keep my ear to the ground when it comes to all things entertaining, so this Rusty phenomenon was not lost on me. I had heard their two singles, Wake Me and Groovy Dead, on the radio and had seen the corresponding videos on MuchMusic more than once. So I knew that this band had reached a certain level of fame (enough to demand a $6 cover and make the band press darlings), but I didn't really like them. Filtered through the speakers of my car they sounded just like any other alternative-flavoured rock band and I did not understand why so many people seemed so excited that they were coming up north to play the Towne House. Nor did I understand from what woodwork the crowd came from last Saturday night. Someone told me that a bus full of Rusty fans descended on the city that night and, though I think they were kidding, I felt like I wasn't in Kansas anymore. The area in front of the stage was packed, but I'll explain what I witnessed from behind a screen of moshing youths.

The band, in short, impressed me. Nowhere on stage was there evidence of the blandness I detected on the radio. Lead singer Ken MacNeil's powerful, gravelly voice gave new life to the songs as he called the crowd to their feet—literally. Dejected by the appearance of six kids sitting at the foot of the stage, MacNeil offered to refund their money if they would just get up. They did, and by the end of the night there were a lot of sweaty people bashing into each other to the beat. Rusty put on a high-energy show that completely changed my mind about the band. I now understand what people are talking about, but I still don't think I'd buy the album.

POETRY CORNER

Does She Think Of Me

Does she think of me,
When our song tickles her ear?

Does she think of me,
Do her memories produce a tear.

Does she think of me,
When all alone at night.
Does she think of me,
Walking in the moonlight.

Does she think of me,
Does it make her ache
inside.

Does she think of me,
Was there more to be tried?

I hope this is true,
It's how I feel about you
I know we had to part
The aching is in my heart
And if our love does return
We'll be together, with passion to burn.

Jesus, SSR

Desmond

He arrives unnoticed
But doesn't leave that way
And forever it will stay

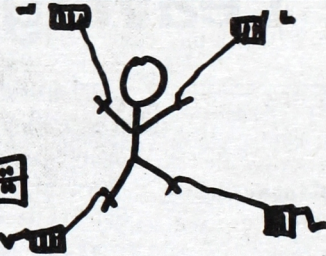

For him it's such a struggle
Which he fights constantly
To bring peace to our souls
And to set our minds free

The quest is never-ending
So many he must heal
the faces blur together
It's so hard to see what's real

He'll continue to strive on
For it's all that he knows
He doesn't dwell on the past
Just waits for tomorrow

Horror Film Wisdom

- 1) After you've killed the monster, NEVER check to see if it's really dead.
- 2) If you find that your house is built upon or near a cemetery, was once a church used for black masses, had previous inhabitants who went mad or committed suicide or died in some horrible fashion or who performed necrophilia or satanic practices, move away immediately.
- 3) Never read a book of demon summoning aloud, even as a joke.
- 4) Do not search the basement, especially when the power has just gone out.
- 5) If your children speak to you in Latin or any other language which they should not know, or if they speak using a voice other than their own, shoot them immediately.
- 6) If the gang plans a fun midnight party in the town's old abandoned mansion, don't tag along. Especially don't tag along if everyone's planning on having a good time and they're all youth counselors...and especially, especially don't tag along if they're all going as couples and you're the odd guy/gal out.
- 7) As a general rule, don't solve puzzles that open portals to Hell.
- 8) Never stand in, on, above, below, beside, or anywhere near a grave, tomb, crypt, mausoleum, or other domicile of the dead.
- 9) If you're searching for something which caused a noise and find out that it's just the cat, leave the room immediately.
- 10) If the appliances start operating by themselves, move out.
- 11) Do not take (or borrow) anything from the dead.
- 12) Don't fool with recombinant DNA technology unless you're sure you know what you're doing.
- 13) If you're running from the monster, plan on stumbling needlessly at least two (2) times, more if you are female.
- 14) If your companions begin to exhibit uncharacteristic behavior such as hissing, fascination with blood, glowing eyes and/or slime... immediately excuse yourself from the conversation and drive away.
- 15) Beware of strangers bearing tools such as chain saws, staple guns, hedge trimmers, electric carving knives, combines, lawnmowers, butane torches, soldering irons, band saws, weed-whackers or any device made from their own severed limbs.
- 16) Listen closely to the soundtrack.
- 17) Never, never, NEVER try to communicate with icky things because "there's so much we can learn from them."
- 18) Don't make fun of or play with dead things.
- 19) If you find a town which looks deserted, it's probably for a reason. If you see a town that looks deserted except for children, do not try to help them - they will eat you.
- 20) If a meteor strikes nearby, move out.
- 21) If you walk into the local abandoned-looking church to seek help or shelter, and you notice that the crucifix is mounted upside down, turn around and go back outside as quietly as possible.
- 22) Never have sex in the bunk beds of recently renovated summer camps.
- 23) Strange lights are seldom harbingers of joy.
- 24) On no account do ANYTHING because someone dares you to.
- 25) If any animals, such as birds, piranhas, spiders, etc. begin to exhibit behaviour that seems a bit more hostile towards mankind than normal, expect to soon find many more. Plan on this. Leave.
- 26) Whenever you land on a distant planet and find some objects that look like eggs, leave them alone.
- 27) Do not allow crewmates back aboard the craft if and after you have found a hideous parasite attached to his/her body.
- 28) De forewarned that a gun is only good for ALMOST killing the monster, never for COMPLETELY killing it. Be sure to have an extra weapon, preferably one with a "flair" (a

- knife, a harpoon, a heavy box, razor confetti, pop tarts...)
- 29) Don't open the closed door, especially if you hear scratching, heavy breathing or the voice of a dear relative
- 30) If you are a female, never show your breasts. Easy women die fast.
- whom you THOUGHT was dead.

WHAT'S ON AROUND TOWN

Thursday, February 29th.

Since this day doesn't really exist, it doesn't really matter what you do. Try going out dancing at Ralph's or watching this show you may have heard about, it's called Friends.

If you prefer a more low key night, check out Sweet and Savoury on Durham St. for their jazz night. They run weekly every Thursday and Friday.

Friday, March 1st.

Nixon is going to be on the Cinescreen until Sunday and since it is up for a few Oscars (for Best Actor, Anthony Hopkins, Best Supporting Actress, Joan Allen and Best Original Screenplay), it must be good. Just a reminder, it starts at 6:00 pm instead of 7:00 and be sure to bring along a comfy cushion to sit on. It looks like a long one.

Monday, March 4th.

The popularity of the movie Margaret's Museum during it's February screening prompted Cinescreen organizers to bring it back for four more showings. It runs from Monday through Thursday and is not to be missed.

If you feel like poetry, Alexandria's on Shaughnessy street has a poetry night every Monday at 7:30.

Leaving Las Vegas

by Tara D'Angelo
Staff Writer

I was pretty much talked into seeing this movie by a few friends of mine. "It's supposed to be good," they said, "It's won awards." For the most part, they weren't lying. Nicholas Cage did win a Golden Globe award for his performance as Ben, the out of work, alcoholic, screen writer and it is up for a few Academy Awards. However, it really wasn't that good. The plot is relatively simple. In the first ten minutes, Cage loses his job because of his addiction, which had something to do with his wife leaving him but that was never really covered. Then, he picks up and moves to Las Vegas where he meets Sera, (Elizabeth Shue) a prostitute who has recently witnessed the murder of her pimp, Yuri.

My mother always used to say, if you can't say something nice about something, don't say anything at all. That pretty much applies to this movie, except for Nicholas Cage's outstanding performance. It truly is worthy of an Oscar nomination and shows just how great his talent really is. Another interesting facet to this movie was the fact that Ben's alcoholism was never actually dealt with. I don't mean to give away too much of the movie, but the problems aren't solved in a neat little package at the end of two hours. In fact, if you must know, he dies at the end. Elizabeth Shue's performance, on the other hand, was not so spectacular. I kept looking at her, half-naked on the screen, and thinking "this is not Adventures in Babysitting."

I have heard very mixed reviews about this movie. Some have loved it and others, such as myself and my five companions, hated it. However, it could have just been that I wasn't in the mood for a movie of this genre. I was giggling because of a man sitting behind me with a slight breathing problem and one the cellular phone of a friend of mine kept ringing incessantly. I do recommend seeing it on a cheap night and making your own judgment.

Au cours de cette année, l'Internet a subi des transformations étonnantes. Il n'est plus seulement un endroit pour des discussions académiques entre profs et autres spécialistes dans des domaines assez bizarres. On dirait que tout le monde se branche et commence à naviguer ce monde virtuel.

Mais une plainte assez

Cette page ne contient qu'une fraction des ressources françaises/francophones/québécoises que nous avons trouvées en navigant l'Internet. Nous avons aussi retrouvé

Nordic Vees Silver As Good As Gold!

by Bronwen Davies
Staff Writer

The Nordic Vees competed at the OUAA / OWIAA Championships in Thunder Bay over the break. The competition was fierce and the trails were fiercer! Big Thunder Nordic Centre hosted the races in similar fashion to their World Nordic Championships of 1995. The women's team finished a very impressive second place. Lakehead's OWIAA championship team was stacked with two girls straight off Team Canada and two more training at the National Training Centre. The home course advantage also helped the Lakehead team out! While the LU men placed a very respectable fourth place, Lakehead's men were OUAA Champions.

The Vee's were very happy with their results. Tim Heale, Diane Carlsson and Bronwen Davies were placed on the OUAA / OWIAA ALL-STAR Team. The team consists of skiers placing consistently in the top ten of the 50+ skier field.

The Vees left for Thunder Bay via Bearskin Airlines and arrived to a winter wonderland with three feet of packed base. It was rumoured that if anyone stepped off the ski trails they would have to wait until spring to recover the body: there was over ten feet of snow in some places!

On Saturday, the men kicked off the competition. Tim Heale from Sudbury was the top LU skier placing 6th in the 10km classic race. The "Legendary" James Ans followed in 17th place; Ben Stevenson was 23rd; Chris Hooper, 26th; Steve Osborne, 37th; and Rob Thomson, 29th.

The women raced a 5km classic. The course was grueling, with hills that tended to rise on their haunch's and swallow skiers up. Diane Carlsson was the Vees' fastest skier and completed the course in 20:12, placing her in 8th place. Bronwen Davies was 10th, followed by Laura Hubbard, 15th; Hilary Morgan, 20th; and Carol Cox, 21st.

With only hours to recover, the team raced in the afternoon relays. The Men's "A" team was led by 2nd year English / Native Studies major, Ben Stevenson, Tim Heale raced the second 10km leg, the team was anchored by Jamie Ans. The team had an awesome race and placed 6th. The men's "B" team was led by 4th year skier Chris Hooper. Rob Thomson raced second with Steve Osborne, a third year Phys Ed. student, anchoring for the team.

The women's team placed Laura Hubbard, a 2nd year Geology student, at the start to stick with the pack and fight her way into the top spots. Laura's rock solid performance had the LU team in 3rd place as she tagged off to Bronwen Davies. Davies caught the Guelph skier quickly and opened up a sizable lead between LU and the third and fourth place teams. Diane Carlsson had her work cut out for her as she charged the course but finished exceptionally with a OWIAA silver medal!

Sunday dawned a "balmy" - 33 degrees Celsius. The races were postponed one hour and with the mercury steadily rising, the women started on their 10km freshly. Nova Scotia native Bronwen Davies completed the course in 38:58, placing her 6th. Diane Carlsson, a masters student at LU, was 8th, followed closely by 2nd year Phed student Hilary Morgan in 9th, and team mates Laura Hubbard, 12th and Carol Cox, 19th.

The Men's 15km course was rated as "one of the toughest in the world." Tim Heale was able to totally annihilate the competition placing second only to Wayne Dustin from Carleton. Dustin, a two time Olympian has been competing for almost 20 years. Heale's silver medal performance was as (GOOD) as gold. He finished the course in an outstanding 43:58. The team was rounded out by 4th year Health Promotion student Chris Hooper from Deep River in 22nd place; Jamie Ans, 24th; Ben Stevenson, 29th; Steve Osborne, 37th and Rob Thomson, 42nd.

The team is already looking to improve for next season. The women are hungry to win back the OWIAA Cup that they captured in Ottawa last year. The men's team will lose captain Chris Hooper but it always brings in some new recruits. Many thanks go out to coach Ken Sydney, ULF Kleppe, and Shirley Pommier. We could not have done it without you! Congratulations to all team members on a wicked season!

the books, school work, and, of course, soccer for many of us. Allrighty then, let's begin amigos!

In the Republic of Ireland, pushing national team coach Jack Charlton into retirement was a huge mistake. Charlton has done miracles for the Irish team and since he is 60 years old, why not give him a national team director position or a similar position to honour his success for the Republic of Ireland. He sure deserves it!

In Sweden, IFK Gothenburg, fresh from another league title, is already planning for the future with three major signings. They have snapped up stopper Teddy Lucic (Vastra Frolunda) and midfielders Nicklas Alexandersson (Halmstad) and Andreas Andersson (Degerfors). Lucic and Andersson are full internationals, while Andersson is seen as one of Sweden's top prospects. IFK's new coach, Mats Jingblad, failed to get his former loan for Blackburn... Malmo have signed former League top scorer Nicklas Kindvall from Hamburg to replace Jorgen Pettersson, sold to Borussia Monchengladbach... midfielder Jonas Thern, unable to win a first-team place at Roma, is thinking of coming home, but rumour has it that Thern has joined Switzerland's Young Boys, a club he graced ten years ago.

In Portugal, Brazilian Paulo Autuori is to be the new coach of Benfica. Autuori, 39, has just led Botafogo to their first Brazilian national championship. The celebrations in Rio were still going on when Benfica announced that he would become their third coach this season, replacing Mario Wilson, who in turn had replaced Artur Jorge, now in charge of the Swiss national squad.

In Malta, after nearly four years at the helm of the Maltese national side, Italian coach Pietro Ghedin decided to call it a day. He turned down a two-year contract extension since he did not register a single win.

In Luxembourg, national team coach Paul Philipp is staying with Luxembourg until the year 2002. The new deal was a little late in coming because his current contract was almost up, but it eventually arrived and Philipp took the challenge head on.

In Croatia, delight at convincing qualification for the European Championships soon turned to disbelief when Tomislav Ivic lost his job with the national squad. The effects of this footballing earthquake are still being felt. Ivic has paid the price for having too long a tongue. The national Federation has decided to do without him, and to bring in two other coaches to help Blazevic. Ivic promptly went to Dubai and signed an 18-month contract as director of soccer for the United Arab Emirates. He took two young coaches, Srecko Juricic and Zeljko Mijac, with him.

In South America, the next South American Championship, for the Copa America, scheduled for Bolivia in 1997, is under a cloud due to World Cup qualifying matches being played at the time. Several countries were in favour of postponing it, but television contracts have already been signed with the Brazilian firm, Traffic. Countries are now likely to send their 'B' teams to the event, except perhaps automatic World Cup qualifiers Brazil, and TV will lose out all the same. After 1997, the competition will be played at four-year intervals to avoid the clash with World Cup games.

In Ghana, Isaac Paha has been named as the new coach of Ghana's

Olympic team in place of Brazilian Ismael Kurtz, who will concentrate solely on the senior side. Ghana meet Cameroon in March to decide one of Africa's three representatives at the Atlanta Games. Goldfields have a two-point lead over Okwawu United in the title race.

Quote of the week in the soccer world: "It's been like buying a big car and then not having the money to buy the petrol" (Bobby Clark, who cited "financial constraints" within Soccer New Zealand as the reason for his resignation as national coach.)

Lady Vees Take Five At York

by Dan Scott
Staff Writer

For the first time in modern history, the Lady Vees Basketball team failed to advance to the gold medal round of the provincial championships. Their fifth place finish in the eight-team tournament was the result of an inability to fill the gap left by injured center Joy McNichol and an inconsistent mental focus throughout the matches. Perpetual rivals Toronto Blues took the gold for the second time in three years by blowing out the Western Mustangs 92-70.

A 70-57 upset by the McMaster Marauders in the opening round of the OWIAA Championships, held at York University, eliminated Laurentian from the hunt for one of the two available national berths. McMaster entered the tournament with the third best record in the West Division and finished with a bronze medal by defeating York. Laurentian's first round loss virtually guaranteed that the formerly 3rd-ranked Vees would be denied a wildcard ticket to the nationals in March at Laval University.

While both Mac and Laurentian were missing an impact player each due to shoulder injury, Mac's depth at the guard position allowed them to fill Carla Vesprini's role without much adjustment. Replacing the Vees 6'3" McNichol was impossible. Ennis sent 5'9" rookie Stephanie DeSutter inside, who performed steadily on defense but had a quiet offensive game with only 4 points.

Laurentian held a 35-31 lead at the half but watched it evaporate within the first three minutes of the second half. Difficulties rose as the Laurentian starters tired and substitutions at all positions resulted in blown defensive assignments, hesitant offense, and all too many mental lapses in the face of the Marauders' full-court press defense.

Mac led by as much as 11 points until the Lady Vees bore down and brought the game back in reach, trailing 60-57 with over three minutes left to play. Laurentian went stone-cold and McMaster had their way with the Vees, scoring ten points straight to finish the game, stunning the Laurentian players and fans and delighting the strong anti-Laurentian contingent amongst the observers. Sarah Kieffer played 38 minutes and led the team with 17 points and 11 rebounds, while OWIAA East Rookie of the Year Karen Vos played 31 minutes and added 14 points.

The loss sent Laurentian on to the consolation side of the tournament on Saturday where they met up with the Queen's Golden Gaels who had arrived via a 71-64 loss to the 2nd ranked Western Mustangs. A glimmer of hope was available to the Vees in their hunt for a wildcard berth—punishing the Gaels by a larger margin than the Mustangs would send a positive message to the wildcard committee. Sadly, Laurentian squandered a great opportunity by allowing Queen's to play catch-up and just barely scraping out a win by a 45-43 final tally in a wild finish.

Things looked good at the close of the low-scoring first half as the Vees led with a 26-13 score. Katie Malone opened up the second half with a pair of threes, but from that point on the Gaels kept pace and, with five minutes left, seized the momentum. Queen's scored the final twelve points of the game, diminishing Laurentian's margin of victory to two points, and had several opportunities to tie or take the lead. Queen's forward Wendy Moon missed both of her free throws early in the final minute of play, but more excitement was to be had.

With 9 seconds left, Jaylene Morrison stole a sloppy pass from Vos and led Queen's on a two-on-one break—but, much to Karen's relief, the fifth-year guard travelled, turning the ball back over to the Vees' possession. The first inbounds pass resulted in a quick foul by Morrison, and Laurentian had to make another pressured inbounds pass under their own basket.

Queen's tactics worked admirably as the moving Vee pass recipient knocked the ball out of bounds. It was Queen's possession with 3 seconds left under the Laurentian hoop—a perfect set-up for a tying basket. The ball ended up in 6'3" fifth-year vet Angela Von Richter's hands at the low post, who unbelievably froze as the seconds ticked away and failed to put the ball in the hoop.

Despite pulling off the win, the Vees' slim margin of victory almost certainly eliminated their wildcard consideration. The win in the second half came only as a result of Queen's mistakes rather than Laurentian's team skill, despite individually strong performances. Malone led the team with 16 points, while Kieffer put in another 33 minutes and 8 points.

Laurentian's win brought on a Sunday meeting with the Lakehead Nor'Westers (courtesy of a semi-final loss to the U of T Blues). The battle of the North ended in Laurentian's favour, 76-73, in an overtime thriller in which the Vees finally showed enduring grit.

The battle to beat the Nor'Westers, who had led the game since the eighth minute of the first half, was accomplished by a solid team effort and an effective change of defensive and offensive tactics in the face of Lakehead's roster sporting no less than four six-foot-plus players.

Laurentian kept it close with zone coverage in the first half, down only 33-30 at the start of the second. Coach Ennis switched to a woman-to-woman defense "and they started killing us," he exclaimed. Lakehead's Allison Smith romped all over Vees' rookie Stephanie Harrison inside, scoring twelve points in the first six minutes of the half. One Laurentian time-out later, the Vees were back to zone coverage and went with a total perimeter offense.

Karen Vos and Katie Malone teamed up to hit four consecutive treys and bring Laurentian within three points, but an eight point run by OWIAA East Rookie of the Year Alicia Gunn threatened to put the game out of reach with a 67-56 tally and only four minutes to go. The Vees rallied with several free throws and were spurred on by another Vos three-pointer.

With 35 seconds left in regulation time, Katie Malone brought the Vees within three after draining her own rebound. With four seconds left, Player of the Game

Karen Vos drained her fourth trey of the half to tie the game up—but the crowd held their breath as Lakehead's Amy Pinnegar brushed the mesh with her 2/3 court attempted buzzer beater.

Overtime was a tightly played affair, where Lakehead and Laurentian traded points back and forth. Up by a single point with less than a minute left, Laurentian ran the clock until Kieffer attempted a trey to put the game out of reach. The shot missed its mark but Sarah picked up the rebound and, with 19 seconds left, Lakehead was forced to foul Malone, who unerringly drained her free throws. The Nor'Westers had plenty of chances to tie it up again but missed two three-pointers and a dangerous play inside to hand the victory, and a fifth-place tournament finish, to the Vees.

Ennis' faith in his starters, as well as his concerns about his bench, were reflected in the floor time they received and the points they contributed in the final game.

Kieffer put in 37 minutes and 14 points, Vos played 34 minutes with 13 points, Malone played 33 minutes with 17 points, Shelley Dewar had 33 minutes and 13 points, and Stephanie DeSutter saw 28 minutes of action with 12 points to show for her efforts. Stephanie Harrison, Tanya Tatti, and Linda Carriere played the bulk of the substitution time and accounted for the remaining seven points scored by the Vees.

Kudos to Laurentian OWIAA East All-Stars Sarah Kieffer and Shelley Dewar. Kieffer averaged 12.8 ppg and 5.6 rebounds per game. Dewar, a Lasalle graduate, averaged 15.8 ppg during the regular season and shot 49% from outside the three-point line. Two other Lasalle Secondary School graduates were also honoured as All-Star picks: 5th-year guard Jaylene Morrison of the Queen's Golden Gaels and Brock Badgers' guard Wendie Nutt.

There are many new and exciting activities starting up. The women have finally hit the ice for another thrilling season of hockey; and in the gym Co-ed volleyball action is underway. Cross country skiing and Innertube water-polo were both big successes this past weekend, results will appear in an upcoming Lambda article.

The men's hockey season finished at the beginning of February with the Huntington Hawks dominating the "A" league and the U.C. Filth coming out on top of the "B" league. Congratulations to both teams and thanks to all participants, scorers, refs, dedicated fans, and Cory Carter for all his late nights in the cold arena.

Ultimate Frisbee enjoyed a beautiful weekend for their tournament. The M 3rd Muskrats were victorious with M 2nd Friends finishing in second place while Matt's Team took the third place spot.

Still to come to the exciting world of Laurentian intramural: on March 3rd is the Badminton tournament and on March 17th the 3-on-3 Basketball tournament. Hope to see you there!

Hockey Vees Break 25 Year Slump

by Lianne Gagnon
Staff Writer

They said it could not be done. For a team destined to finish last, the Laurentian hockey Vees managed to amaze everyone. Not only did coach Hyrsky's boys finish the regular season in first place in their division, they also won the Ontario Universities Athletic Association Mid-West Division final against the Brock Badgers. The Vees swept the Badgers in a best-of-three series, two games to none and now prepare to face the Waterloo Warriors in the OUAA championships, which will be held at Wilfrid Laurier University on March 2nd and 3rd.

On Thursday, February 22nd, the Vees skated on to the Sudbury Arena ice surface with no intention of giving up game one to the Badgers, even though Brock started the ball rolling early in the first. Kiley Hill came back a few minutes later, and put one past Brock goalie Mike Edwards. Duane Lewis was next to score for Laurentian, followed by a beautiful short handed goal by Hill. The Badgers tried to fight back, but the Vees had the upper hand by the end of the first, leading 3-2.

David Graff scored a power play goal for the Vees five minutes into the second, only to have Brock's Craig Callister sneak one by Laurentian's Sean Spencer. The Vees' Pat Armatage returned the favour, which resulted in Brock's decision to change their goalie. No sooner did the Badgers' new hope warm up, that the Vees Kevin MacKay got a short handed goal, ending the period with a 6-3 lead.

The Badgers returned in the third in search of blood, but were unable to intimidate the Vees whatsoever. Brock managed to score once on a power play, only to have the Vees' Corey Evans and MacKay end the game 8-4.

The Voyageurs were on cloud nine after such a fantastic win. They gave the fans the performance of a lifetime, not to mention perhaps the only playoff action Sudbury hockey fans may see this year. The Hockey Vees have not won a playoff game since 1979, and the guys were thrilled to finally break the slump.

Coach Hyrsky had nothing but praise for his players. "We beat Brock every period," said Hyrsky. "The guys were nervous in the first but pulled through." Hyrsky classified Thursday's win as a typical Laurentian game. "We used our fire power and kept our discipline," said Hyrsky.

Thursday's MVP was newcomer Bob Brunet. This tough, quick, and aggressive player definitely contributed to Thursday's victory. When asked how he felt about game two of the series, Brunet replied "I'm not worried. They'll want to win, and they'll come out flying, but we're the better team." In fact, Brunet jokingly said (I think) "They don't belong on the same rink as us."

Well, Bob and the rest of the team must have brought that enthusiasm with them when they met Brock for game two in St-Catharine's on Saturday, February 24th.

The Badgers had no intentions of letting Laurentian sweep the series. The Vees on the other hand, wanted to dispense with the pesky Brock team in order to move into the OUAA championships. And that is exactly what they did. Duane Lewis scored late in the first with an amazing wrist shot. Hill and MacKay added two to the scoreboard in the second. Despite Brock's brief comeback, David Graff and Hill's empty netter in the third assured Laurentian a 5-2 victory.

Yet another spell had been broken. For the first time in 25 years, the Laurentian hockey Vees won the OUAA Mid-West Division finals. The team was elated! The trainers were thrilled! The coach was ecstatic!

Saturday's MVP was goalie Sean Spencer, and with good reason. Spencer stopped 41 of the 43 shots Brock fired at him. If not for his wonderful performance, there could have very well been a third game. "This game was the very reason why Spencer is our number one goalie," said coach Hyrsky. "He was just outstanding."

So what does the future hold for the Hockey Vees? The team now advances to the OUAA finals at Wilfrid Laurier this weekend where they will meet the Waterloo Warriors. The Warriors were one of the top ranked teams in Canada during the regular season. The Vees split their two meetings with Waterloo, winning 7-5 in Sudbury, and losing 6-5 in Waterloo on a late goal.

Hyrsky believes his team has a good chance of defeating Waterloo this weekend. If the Vees can win this one game, they will be guaranteed a spot at the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union (CIAU) Hockey Championships. The CIAU's will be held in Toronto at the Varsity Arena on March 8th and 9th. The final game is set to be played at Maple Leaf Gardens on Sunday, March 10th.

Good luck to the Laurentian Varsity Men's Hockey team this weekend in Waterloo and congratulations for making this year the best season the Hockey Vees have had in 25 years!

Relay Team Qualifies for CIAU.

by Rob Vanden Hengel
Contributor

The Vees' Track and Field team competed at two track meets over the spring break. On Friday, February 16th, they participated at the 21st Annual Western Open. The stage for a successful meet was set when Shane Rosati jumped 7.03m in the long jump. It qualifies Shane for the CIAU Championships, gave him a new school record, and a first place medal. In the triple jump, Ian Janssen jumped a personal best and a school record of 14.20m. This also gave Ian a first place finish in the competition. Janssen and Rosati then also teamed up with Jason Lash and Glenn Lamothe in the 4 x 200m relay. The relay team ran a 1:32.65 which was one tenth of a second off the school record. This also gave them a first place finish.

In addition, Jason Lash placed 3rd in the 300m (36.0) and Jenn Dewan placed 3rd in the 600m (1:37.6). Personal best performances were set by Glenn Lamothe in the 300m (37.0), John Thomson in the 1500m (4:10.2), Rob Vanden Hengel in the 3000m (9:02.7) and Lynn Perron in the 3000m (10:45.4).

On Friday February 23rd, the track team participated in the Last Chance Qualifier at the University of Toronto. The first event was the 4 x 200m relay. Once again Shane Rosati, Glenn Lamothe, Ian Janssen, and Jason Lash teamed up. The team had three excellent starts and finishes in a time of 1:31.4. This time was a new school record and also qualified them for the CIAU Championships. Rosati also placed first in the long jump (6.72) and had a personal best of 7.13 seconds in the 60m. This gave him a second place finish. Jason Lash placed 2nd in the 300m (36.73). Ian Janssen placed 4th in the triple jump with a jump of 13.77m. On the women's side, Tracy Andersen placed 5th in the 60m with a personal best time of 8.22 seconds. She also had a PB in the 300m with a time of 47.0 seconds. Jenn Dewan placed 4th in the 300m with a time of 44.50 (a PB) and 5th in the 600m (1:37.39). Other Personal Bests produced were by John Thomson in the 1000m (2:38.04) and Eding Mvilongo in the 60m (8.74 sec) and 300m (46.64).

The track and field team is ready to compete at the OUAA / OWIAA Championships next Friday and Saturday at York University, with the CIAU championships the following week at the University of Windsor.
